ON WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, the Diridon Station Area Advisory Group (SAAG) will reconvene for the first time since January. (Find the agenda and Zoom information here.) All are welcome. The SAAG and the public will have an opportunity to provide feedback on some of the City's most recent analyses and proposals related to the Diridon Station Area Plan (DSAP), which you can find here.

While these new city analyses only represent the start of the next phase of public input and discussions, the vast majority of staff recommendations align with SV@Home's Housing Vision.

The General Plan Four-Year Review Task Force Meetings are also restarting, with the first video meeting June 25. Here are the agenda and details of work to date, and virtual access information. Critical policy areas to be discussed include expanding citywide the Task Force's recommendation to exempt affordable housing developments in Urban Villages from cost-prohibitive ground-floor retail requirements.
